Property Description

In the Périgord Noir, at the end of a small typical hamlet, between Montignac-Lascaux and Sarlat, this property of character is situated in a high and quiet area. It is not isolated and faces south. The land of about 5000 m² is flat and landscaped, so there are pleasant shaded areas in front. At the back of the house, a beautiful resin tennis court will seduce amateurs. The house is covered in slate and flat tiles. It has approx.

230 m² of living space on two levels. Although equipped with central heating, this house remains in its original state and depending on the use to which its next owners put it, modernisation work will or could be carried out. A central entrance leads on one side to the living room with fireplace, kitchen garden, stone sink and adobe floor, a large bedroom with fireplace at mid-level, a bathroom, a small kitchen and a small sitting room. On the first floor, the landing leads to two adjoining bedrooms, and a large landing/mezzanine bedroom. Attic, cellar and small shed. Possibility to build a swimming pool.

Buying French Property Just Got Easier...

The purchase process typically starts once you've visited a property with one of our agents and you made an offer on a property. Once your offer has been accepted, the property will come off the market and our local bilingual expert will liaise with you and the notaire. The compulsory searches are at the charge of the owner / vendor and are carried out at this stage.

You would have already been informed about the property taxes and legal fees (that incl. the stamp duty). The agency fees are already included in the listed price on this document, there's no premium for the superior service we offer. You don't have to pay the deposit until the 'pre-contract' has been signed, and the 10 days calling off period has expired. It takes an average of three months to buy a property in France.

Testimonials

my-french-house was by far the best online guide I found – and I trawled them all – to buying a house in France. It answers all your first questions practically before you've thought to ask.

C. BAUER – Sunday Times

Our French property purchase and move to France were made so easy with the help and assistance of my-french-house.com. They are a committed and professional business – we highly recommend them.
