Property Description

Built around 1735, this stunning private mansion is one of the most historic and architecturally important houses of the town. During the Hundred Years' War, King Edward III installed his son as the administrator of the region. Known later by the sobriquet 'The Black Prince', the ruins of his palace chapel still remain as part of the mansion's fabric. The property is presently divided into a 2 bedroom main residence with 3 self-contained apartments. The main part benefits from beautiful reception rooms, a stone staircase, 2 en-suite bedrooms, and possibility to create 2 more bedrooms. The apartments have separate entrances and access to the street.

Two of them are composed of a living room, a kitchen and a bedroom, and the largest apartment has 2 en-suite bedrooms.

Outside, there is an attractive, mature and private garden with a beautiful swimming pool and shaded terrace.

A side of the property hasn't been renovated, which offers various possibilities : enlargement of the private part of the house, an artist studio, an independant profession...

Buying French Property Just Got Easier...

The purchase process typically starts once you've visited a property with one of our agents and you made an offer on a property. Once your offer has been accepted, the property will come off the market and our local bilingual expert will liaise with you and the notaire. The compulsory searches are at the charge of the owner / vendor and are carried out at this stage.

You would have already been informed about the property taxes and legal fees (that incl. the stamp duty). The agency fees are already included in the listed price on this document, there's no premium for the superior service we offer. You don't have to pay the deposit until the 'pre-contract' has been signed, and the 10 days calling off period has expired. It takes an average of three months to buy a property in France.
