Property Description

Exceptional Property - Magnificent 16th-century Stone Mas with Prestigious History

In the heart of Saint Rémy de Provence, discover this sumptuous 16th-century stone mas, which was once the residence of Bertrand Denotredame, brother of Nostradamus.

Imbued with authenticity, this building extends over an impressive 30-meter long facade, offering over 500 square meters of living space.

The living spaces are very spacious, with beautiful rooms on the ground floor. The property has 9 bedrooms, most of them with en-suite bathrooms. Notably, each room is flooded with abundant light and has high ceilings, creating a unique and refined atmosphere.

Meticulous renovation work has been carried out to preserve the integrity of this exceptional property. The window frames are in double-glazed wood or wrought iron, and the roof, electricity, plumbing, and facade have all been completely renovated. Thus, this residence harmoniously combines the traditional elegance of stone with modern amenities.

The mas is equipped with an oil heating system in the ancient-style part, while the modern part benefits from reversible air conditioning, offering optimal comfort throughout the year. Additionally, the property features two water heaters and a UV filtering system for the well.

Outside, you will be charmed by the splendid Provençal landscaped garden, the superb terraces, and the 2000 olive trees that adorn the property. A large 16x8m pool heated by a heat pump invites you to relax. Carefully arranged lighting creates a pleasant ambiance, while a traditional garden leads to a chapel framed by Roman columns, and a stone shelter with an arch allows you to observe the stars in an enchanting setting.

This exceptional property is an architectural gem that combines history and modernity, offering an idyllic living environment in one of the most beautiful regions of Provence.

Do not miss this unique opportunity to own a property of incomparable quality, where the charm of the past meets contemporary comfort.
